17. MY/OUR CHOICE FOR A HERD NAME (PREFIX) IS:

What is a Prefix?

All breeders must register a prefix. This prefix is unique to the individual and cannot be used by anyone else. It's important to note that a prefix is not the same as a stud name—you can name your stud whatever you like.

A prefix is the name that appears before the name you give to any horse born at your stud. This prefix is registered with the Society and the SA Studbook. It is crucial because it identifies your horses for breeding, exhibiting, and pedigree purposes.

Once a prefix is registered and assigned to a horse you bred, it becomes a permanent part of that horse's name for exhibiting, selling, and breeding. The name, once allocated, can never be changed, as it serves as a lifelong record of the horse.

Carefully consider how you want to be recognized as a breeder and exhibitor—your Stud Prefix carries significant meaning.
